Forecast For West Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Wednesday 23 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Fine and dry for most, with sunny spells.

Today:
A bright but chilly morning across the region, with patchy cloud developing from midday. Northwestern areas seeing the most of this, and perhaps a little light rain or drizzle. Staying dry for most with sunny spells, feeling warm in these. Maximum temperature 22 deg C (72 deg F).

Tonight:
A cloudy night for northwestern areas, with patchy light rain or drizzle remaining likely throughout. Southeastern areas seeing clearer skies and remaining largely dry, but cloud arriving here by morning. Minimum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Thursday:
More organised rain, heavy at times, sweeps southeastwards across the region through morning. Becoming drier and brighter following this, but with a risk of some showers. Maximum temperature 20 deg C (68 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Unsettled conditions throughout, with some dry and bright spells across the region. Outbreaks of rain and showers, some of these heavy and possibly thundery, are likely, however. Feeling warm.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.